Community Services & Urban Ministry Certification Program

INTRODUCTION TO THE INTERNATIONAL INSTITUTE OF CHRISTIAN DISCIPLESHIP (IICD) COMMUNITY SERVICES & URBAN MINISTRY CERTIFICATION PROGRAM

The International Institute of Christian Discipleship (IICD) (formerly International Institute of Christian Ministries [IICM]) is a component of the General Conference Sabbath School and Personal Ministries Department. IICD is an umbrella under which various types of instruction (specializations) can be offered online that will fit within the purview of religious education, church leadership, global mission, and outreach.

The IICD Community Services & Urban Ministry Certification Program (IICD CS & UMCP) is the newest IICD specialization and it contains modules with teaching notes and an accompanying PowerPoint presentation. The IICD CS&UMCP modules help equip church members to serve their community and administer programs that meet expressed needs of the residents of these communities.

For more information on IICD, including a bulletin, go to www.sabbathschoolpersonalministries.org, and click on Personal Ministries and then on International Institute of Christian Ministries (now Discipleship). Several IICD specializations are at this location. The IICD CS&UMCP curriculum is also available at this direct link: http://www.sabbathschoolpersonalministries.org/acs_iicd

The IICD Community Services & Urban Ministry specialty will, in general, follow the typical IICD format: Four core modules plus eight¹ required specialization modules. An elective module in disaster preparedness and response (CS 09) is optional, and is available to take above and beyond the eight required modules. CS 05 is one module in seven parts.

The modules in this curriculum are written by a variety of authors, and are presented in a variety of styles and formats. When the eight required IICD Community

¹ Most IICD specialties have 6 modules, and, occasionally, some specialties have one or two electives.

Services & Urban Ministry specialization modules and the four IICD core modules are completed, a student will be eligible for the International Institute of Christian Discipleship (IICD) certificate in Community Services & Urban Ministry. This curriculum is not intended to be used for academic credit. Its purpose is to lay the groundwork for effective community-based ministry, whether it be from a local church or from a nonprofit organization.

Please note: The promotion and the logistics of running the IICD Community Services & Urban Ministry Certification Program in a specific territory will not be administered from the General Conference Sabbath School & Personal Ministries Department. Local churches that wish to conduct an IICD CS&UMCP must contact their local Conference to make arrangements for a certified IICD CS&UMCP facilitator to expedite such a program. If no certified facilitators are currently available in their Conference or Union, ask the Conference, through the Union, to contact the Division Sabbath School & Personal Ministries Director about available certified IICD CS&UMCP facilitators. If none are certified in the entire Division, suggest that the Division invite the Adventist Community Services International Director at the General Conference Sabbath School & Personal Ministries Department to conduct an IICD CS&UMCP in the Division. For more information on the protocol for arranging for the presentation of a full IICD CS&UMCP, retrieve “Protocol for Presenting IICD Community Services and Urban Ministries Certification Programs” at www.sabbathschoolpersonalministries.org/acs_iicd

The awarding of certificates of completion will be provided by the Divisions, Unions, or Conferences, according to the local situation. We encourage a graduation ceremony with presentation of a certificate of completion for each graduate. IICD CS&UMCP Certificate templates can be obtained from your Division Sabbath School & Personal Ministries Director.

To become an IICD CS&UMCP Facilitator, (1) a person must attend and complete a full IICD CS&UMCP and (2) complete the IICD CS&UMCP Facilitator’s course.

Textbooks listed in some of the modules are for enrichment and are to be used or not used at the local instructor’s discretion.

This curriculum is a work in progress—a living document. When you use the materials, we welcome your suggestions for improvement. Please send feedback to May-Ellen Colón, curriculum editor, and Director of ACS International, at colonm@gc.adventist.org or colon.mayellen507@gmail.com.

It is our prayer that this Community Services & Urban Ministry curriculum will be helpful in equipping and enabling God's church members to live out the ministry of Jesus in their communities, as they prepare the way for His Second Coming. "Social action is a living witness to our soon-returning Lord. When we take a stand for justice, compassion, and healing, we demonstrate the values of the coming Kingdom." ²

Other Available Seventh-day Adventist Social Ministries Curricula:

- The North American Division (NAD) Nonprofit Leadership Certification Program (NLCP) also provides a curriculum in community-based ministry, which goes into greater depth, detail, and breadth than the IICD curriculum. Certification at this level consists of attending seminars for two weeks, approximately 30 contact hours per week (Monday-Thursday) in various locations in the North American Division. For more information on NLCP go to www.communityservices.org. Also, NAD Adventist Community Services focuses on six community services ministries: Youth Empowered to Serve (YES), Community Development, Disaster Response, Crisis Care, Elder Care, and Tutoring and Mentoring. There are resources available for each of these six ministries. Go to www.communityservices.org for more information.
- ADRA International's Professional Leadership Institute (APLI) provides a competency-based curriculum for an advanced level of preparation in social ministry. This institute provides advanced leadership competency training in a range of skill sets relevant to the design and management of emergency response and community development programs, as well as leadership and administrative skills. For more information, contact Herb Eisele at Herbert.Eisele@adra.org.
- Community Health Series –“Community/Village Health Series” is a resource provided by Adventist Mission. This is a set of very practical workshops that church members can use to bring health education to communities/villages in developing countries, and run-down areas. PowerPoints with scripts cover issues such as sanitation/cleanliness, health, nutrition, child survival, raising healthy families, family planning, HIV/AIDS, Malaria, alcohol, etc. These PowerPoint presentations with accompanying scripts will be available after June 1, 2014 at www.UrbanCenters.org. For areas that don't have projectors the illustrations could be printed out to show to small audiences.
